The Changing Times

Students have seen many changes that were innovated at Campus this year. They include the inflow of new administrators and teachers as well as the different class and activity arrangements. There also have been many additions to the curriculum. Among the more interesting are Boys Homemaking and Distributive Education. All of these are just examples of the "changing times".

At the beginning of the year many students were uneasy as to the affects the numerous changes would have on the school as a whole, but as the year progressed they realized that the majority of these changes were for the better.

The design on the cover represents an eclipse which is a sign of the changing time.

The purpose of the 1967 Yearling is to illustrate the various changes and their results through the many facets of life at Campus High.

ALMA MATER - "Onward Campus"

Onward with Campus, honor praise to thee.
We pledge with Campus, honor praise to thee:
Wisdom, truth and honor builds our virtue great,
Making true our vision, higher to create.

Our alma mater, noble brave and strong.
To thee with glad hearts, we will raise our song.
Black and white forever hold our banner high
Hail to Campus High School, dear old Campus High.

Faculty, Academics

The Assistant Principal, Mr. John Smith, aided Mr. Hays in his duties and responsibilities.

Mr. Hays, principal, has provided leadership and guidance for the students.

The Board of Education, Mr. Baunig, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Ransom, Mr. Harvey, and Mr. Beall, with the help of Superintendent Bruce Stallard decided on the changes in curriculum which met the needs of Campus High students.

Counselors Mr. Art Johnson, Mr. Glen Crum, and Mrs. Barbara Bath check the calendar of events.

Mr. Smith worked to assist CHS students meet the challenges of change.

Mr. Hays And Mr. Smith Help Meet School Changes

Haysville Campus High School had many changes in 1966 and 1967. Here to meet those changes were the new Principal Barney Hays and Mr. John Smith, assistant principal. They guided the students in meeting new goals and achievements.

To help Mr. Hays and Mr. Smith in the many problems that arose at Campus were the counselors. They helped guide students in their work and future plans.

Standing behind Campus in a new and changed year was the school board and Superintendent Bryce Stallard. They met the needs of a changing school and student body.

Various problems and requests of the faculty are brought before the Executive Council each month.

In addition to driving their regular bus routes, the bus driver took students on many outside trips.

These secretaries assisted the administrators, faculty, and student body throughout the school year.

The five maintenance men were responsible for school repair and upkeep during the year.

Linen from the gym classes was the major task of the ladies who worked in the school laundry.

The cafeteria workers endeavored to provide nourishing, appetizing lunches for the faculty and the student body.

Personnel Provide Assistance And Services To Students

Minor repairs, cleaning and assisting teachers were among the varied duties of the custodians.

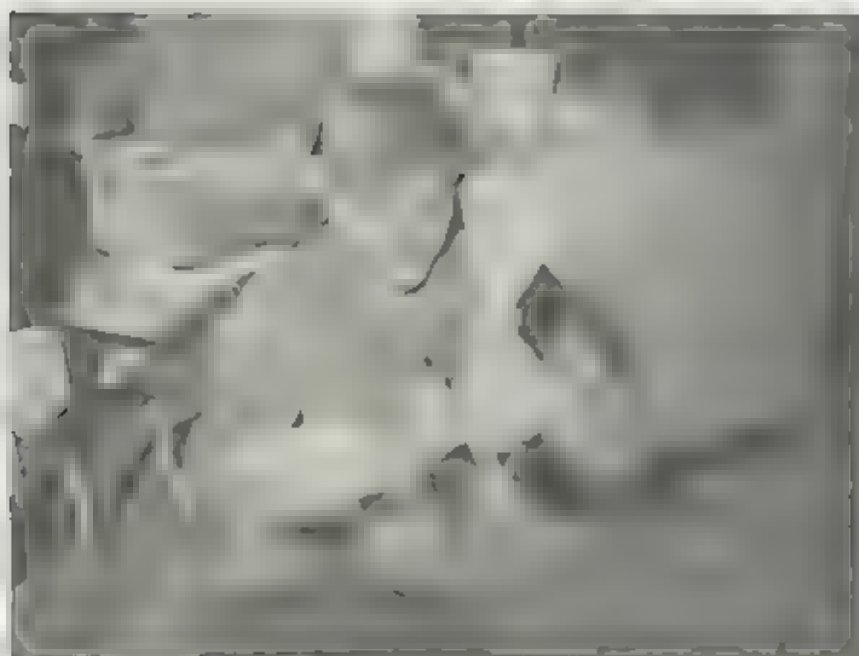

Steve Smith hands Mrs. Whitehouse a pass to see a counselor.

Matron Edith Alexander keeps the canteen clear for the students and furnishes refreshments for the faculty.

Shirley Hughes purchases her lunch in the CHS cafeteria.

Mrs. Martin's third hour beginning biology class studies the egg at different stages of development. A physics student adjusts the light source before.

Campus Science Classes Are Laboratory Orientated

Campus science classes last year were lab orientated. Six special material biology classes had no textbook. Those students learned the same materials as the general biology classes, but in a different way, for this class was a lab stressed course. Another new course, advanced biology, was a combination of zoology and botany.

Physics classes used a new text, "Physical Science Study Committee." P.S.S.C. was considered an advanced course. Chemistry enrollment had doubled since the year before.

Introductory physical science for freshmen replaced the basic science.

For all needed school supplies, students may go to the D.E. operated book store.

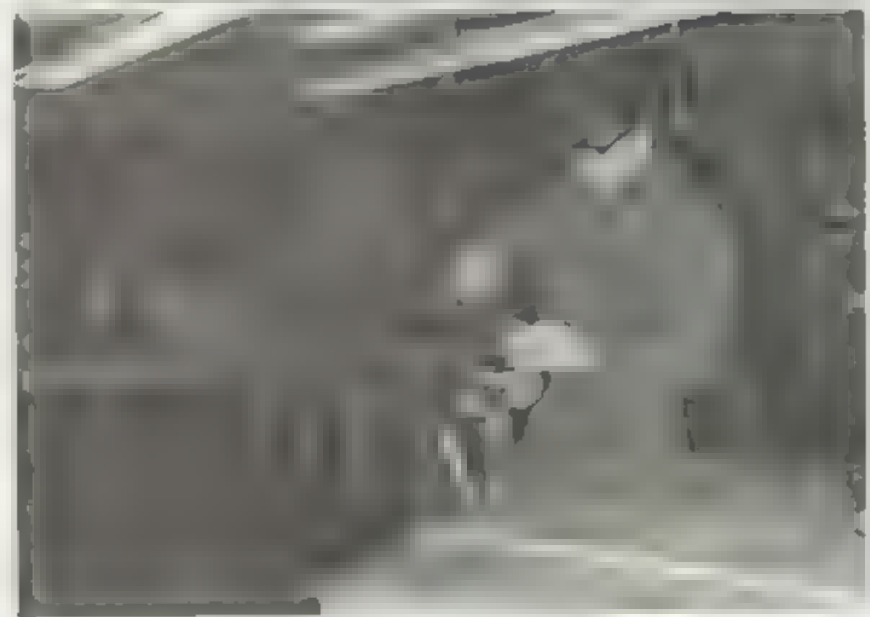

Mr. Eberle assisted Ann Rad-bark with a distributive education project.

Special Education And D.E. Feature Job Opportunities

Special education, a course for the slow learners, emphasized the needed experience to function in society. Social, economical and emotional aspects of life were stressed in each lesson. Seniors were given part time work experience.

For those students interested in business, distributive education was an excellent course in which to enroll. Retailing, wholesaling and service activities involved in the process of getting goods from the producer to the consumer were studied.

To enable them to further their knowledge in everyday activities, homemaking and woodworking classes were available to special education students.

Business Students Receive Valuable Career Experience

For those Campus students interested in business careers, a more than adequate curriculum was available. Various levels of shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping were offered. The girls who took office practice and machines assisted the office secretaries in their duties and aided students who came to the office. Business law, a new course, offered CHS students an opportunity to learn the basic concepts of law. In addition, the relationship of law to themselves were related to the lives of students, their parents, and associates.

Mrs. Maxwell's shorthand classes study the various techniques of writing shorthand

In the most advanced mathematics courses, abstract principles were learned and applied

Mathematics Offers Training For Today's Changing Times

In the changing times of today, specialization and knowledge are requirements for securing job opportunities. To help Campus students gain the necessary training, various math courses were offered. In basic mathematics, the fundamentals of arithmetic were taught, while Algebra I, Algebra II, and college algebra students learned and applied the basic principles of their respective courses. Geometry and trigonometry led to the most advanced and newly instituted course, statistical probability. This course dealt with the chances of certain results coming from a set of conditions.

Mr. Crum explained bookkeeping mathematical procedures to students society was the main purpose of the senior American government course.

Economics, a one-half credit course, was a required senior subject. The objective was to aid the students in their efforts to acquire clear and dependable knowledge of the important facts and fundamental principles of economics.

In American Government and Economics, seniors learned to apply basic principles to their everyday lives.

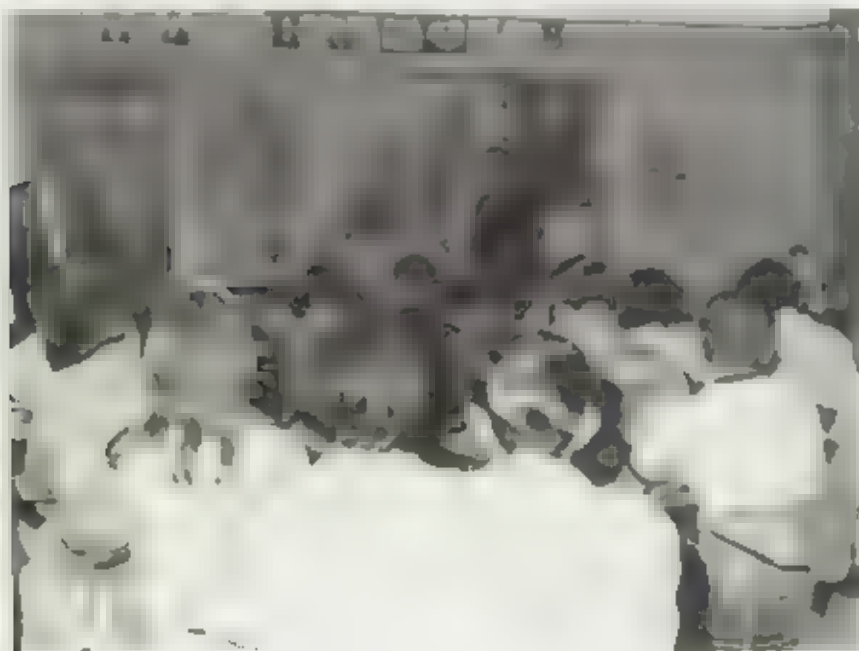

Team-teachers Mr. Fisher and Mr. Learned aided students in locating areas where important events occurred.

Vocational students were made aware of the various occupational fields.

Mr. Unruh explained the copy machine to students, while Linda Unruh finished her formal dress. Electricity pupils completed an assignment.

Practical Arts Offer

Subjects such as child care, homeplanning, tailoring, clothing, and foods allowed the girls to further their knowledge as future homemakers.

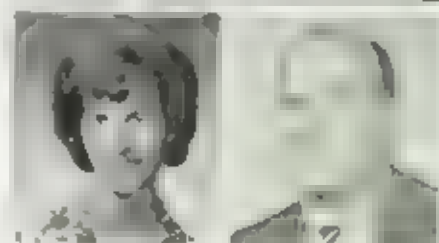

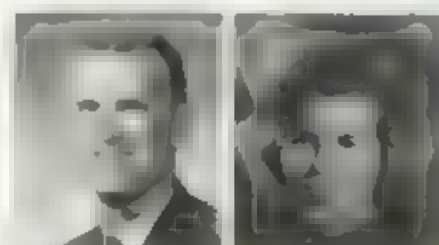

Printing, auto mechanics, mechanical drawing, woodworking and boys home ec. on the other hand, were courses available for boys. Learning to set type, kinds of indention, poetry composition, program styles and uses of initial letters were some projects of printing. Self-Expression Stressed In Basic Art Course

The basic art course was designed to expose students to a variety of media and areas of self-expression. The students were introduced to the basic elements and principles of design and fundamentals in the areas of ceramics and sculpture, drawing and painting, printmaking and commercial art areas. The curriculum in the advanced art classes was divided among those going into more detail and devoting approximately nine weeks to each area. Each student worked on an individual basis with freedom to choose within these areas the projects they wished to undertake.

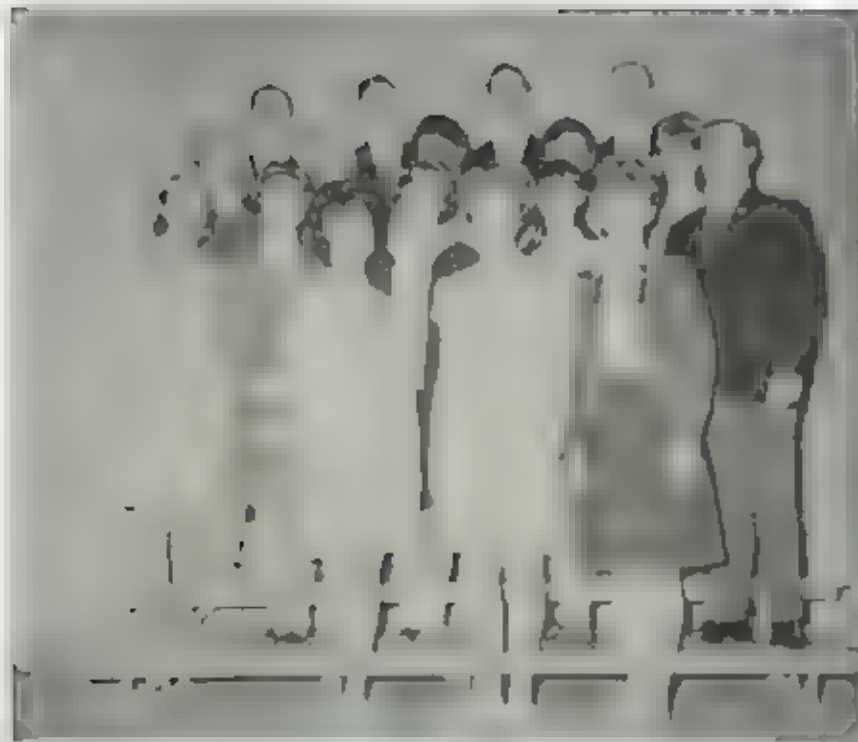

Art students studied oil and water color painting and ceramics in an effort to express themselves. Jeannie Charles and Faye Cundiff inspect the work of the art classes.

Self-Confidence Increased In Speaking, Acting Courses

In the advanced oral performance course of forensics, emphasis was placed upon physical, facial, and oral expression in the performing arts. The speech courses were devoted to studies of the techniques of public speaking, ranging from impromptu research to the control elements for dealing with stage fright. For those students sincerely interested in acting and in promoting theatrical productions at CHS, dramatics was a most desirable class. All these subjects increased the knowledge and self-confidence of the students who studied them.

Language Arts Teachers Establish New Philosophy

Beginning the school year with eleven new teachers of the twelve teaching language arts, the department developed many new teaching methods and brought progressive changes to their classes.

These teachers met during the year to establish a new philosophy for the department. In addition, objectives and scope and sequence was listed for each class. Before school was out, ground work was layed to offer more classes in language arts and to start team-teaching for the coming year.

The library facilities enabled students to do extensive research and to further their reading knowledge.

"Colt Special" Staff Acquires Newspaper Production Skills

The "Colt Special" staff's main purpose was to learn the procedures of newspaper make-up, such as headlines, copy, and layouts and how to put these techniques to use through the publication of the "Colt Special." Each student was appointed a position at the beginning of the year, which they held throughout the year. This year the staff published an extra-special twelve page senior edition.

The backbone of Campus' newspaper was the reporters. Their ability to find and report stories helped to make the paper more interesting.

Deena Johnson and Sherst Kotar, copyreaders, helped the school paper be more accurate by eliminating errors.

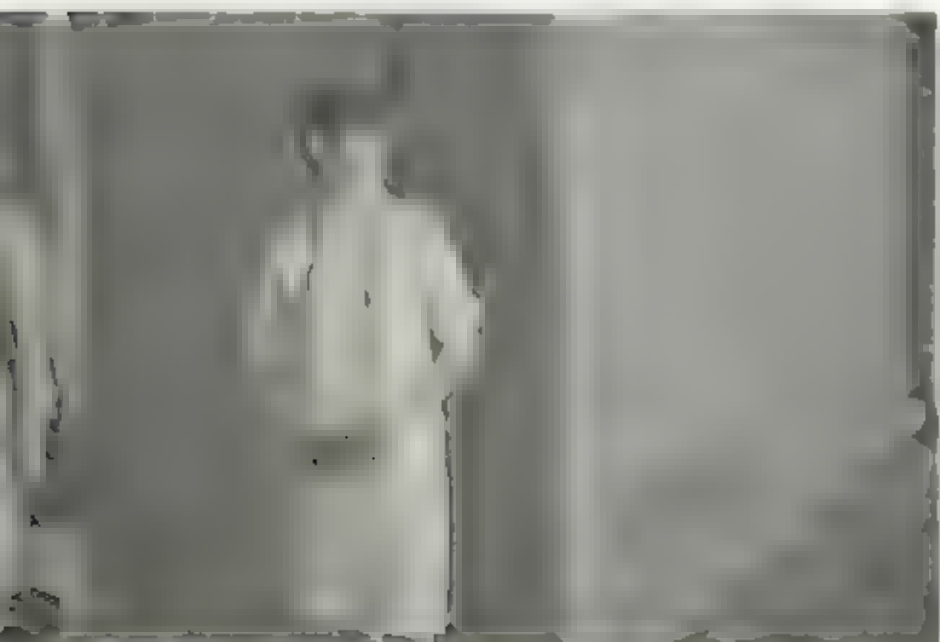

Editor Vickie Kirkendall and Assistant Editor Diane Stone discuss pictures for final layouts to assure that the 1967 "Yearling" will completely cover the school activities.

Theme Of 1967 "Yearling" Reflects Life At Campus

A new administration and faculty, a broader curriculum offering, and endless school spirit these are the things that led the 1967 "Yearling" staff to select the theme "changing times." Through layouts, copy, black-and-white pictures as well as colored, the "Yearling" reflects the mood of school life at Campus this year. A year marked by the achievement of high goals and numerous awards.

School Photographers Patty Coleman and Mardella Compton worked endless hours to produce top quality pictures.

Section editors of the yearbook organized their respective staffs in order to meet deadlines.

Jill Everett, David Ferrell, Bobbie Walters, Cathy Hoffman, and Gary May are busy counting money and discussing the budget for the yearbook.

Changing Times Make Foreign Language Essential

In the changing times of today when intercontinental travel is no longer reserved for the wealthy, leisurely elite of society a basic background in foreign languages is essential. The Campus curriculum included four levels each of Spanish and French, and German 1 and 2. In all the courses, emphasis was placed upon pronunciation and conversation in the basic courses, with vocabulary and grammatical skills taught in the advanced levels.

Physical Education Improves Health And Physical Fitness

A required course of freshmen and sophomores, physical education encouraged the underclassmen to improve their health and physical fitness. For those junior and senior girls interested in continuing this subject, advanced P.E. included modern dance, correct body mechanics, rhythmic and movement fundamentals, and creative activity. Gymnastics was an introduction to basic tumbling and apparatus skills. Junior and senior students could also have been leaders whose main purpose was to aid the P.E. teachers. All these classes helped students maintain the healthy bodies so essential to further happiness.

With coaching next to none, the Campus Colts set a record yet to be beaten by any of the other Campus teams: Tying with the Derby Panthers, the Colts placed fourth in the Ark Valley League.

The 1966-67 varsity football squad tallied a 4-5 win-loss record. With the Colts highlighting their season by upsetting A.V.L.'s first ranked Winfield Vikings with a 31-6 score.

A better understanding of the sport, determination, and greatly improved school spirit are a few assets involved in making future seasons even more successful.

1966-67 Ark Valley League Champions

A.V.L. Champs Overwhelm Opposition; Travel To State

After an unsuccessful season last year, the 1966-67 basketball team bounced back with an overwhelming record by taking Ark Valley League honors and capturing the Campus Invitational. By taking first place in the Regional competition, the Colts earned a berth in the State Tournament.

The Colts compiled a fourteen win and no loss record before being upset by the Hutchinson Salt Hawks. A few of the season's highlights came when the Champs conquered the Derby Panthers with four consecutive wins.

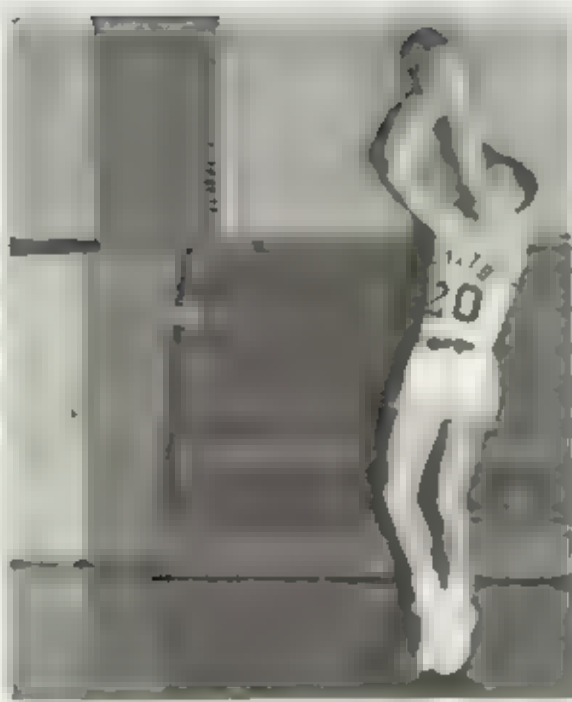

Campus produced two first-team men, Ron Soft and Steve Dannels, in league competition. Richard Buchanan received a place on the second team and Larry Watkins earned an honorable mention.

The knowledge and experience behing the winning team was supplied by Coach Fred Reed and Assistant Coach Bob Hudgins. These men were essential in helping the Colts re-establish school spirit.

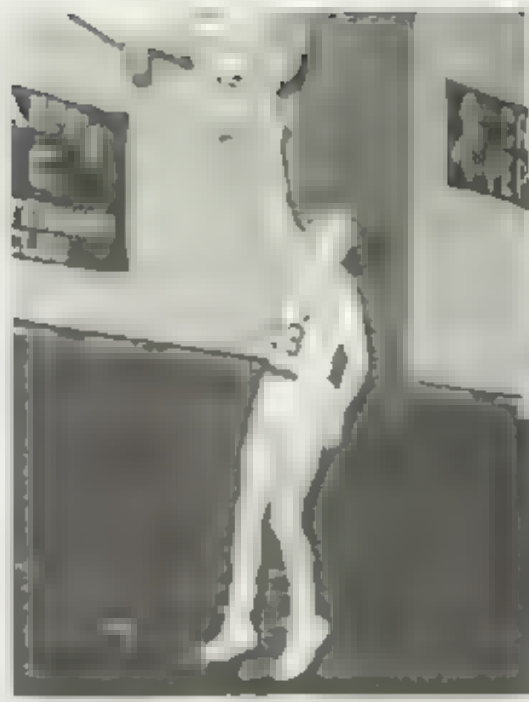

Spirit, enthusiasm, and a souvenir climaxed the Regional victory over South as the Colts earned a berth to State

Robby Williams and Mickey Teschke qualified for the State Tournament. Mickey placed as Campus' first state wrestling champion.

Coach Williams was surprised at the turnout of this year's wrestling results. The Coach is looking forward to an even better season next year.

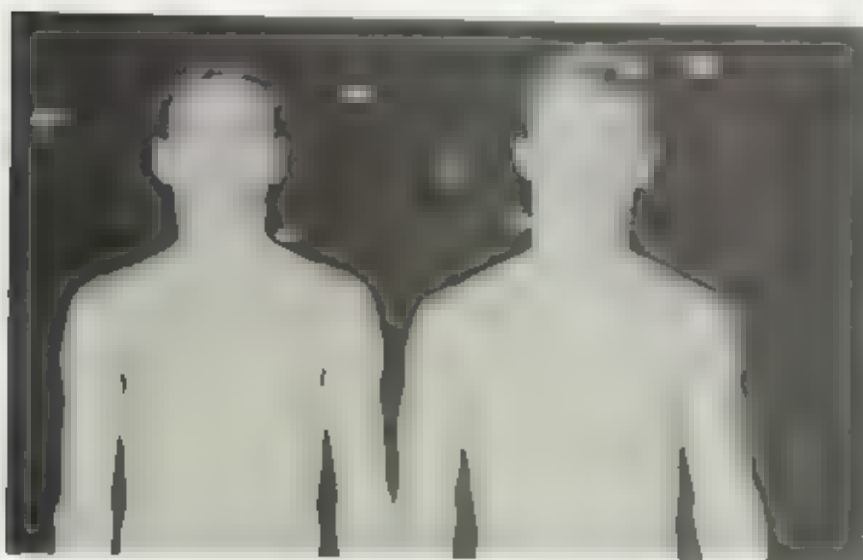

Coached by Mr. G. O. Crum, the Campus swim team will be returning seven lettermen for the next season

Warwick Places Second At State Swim Meet

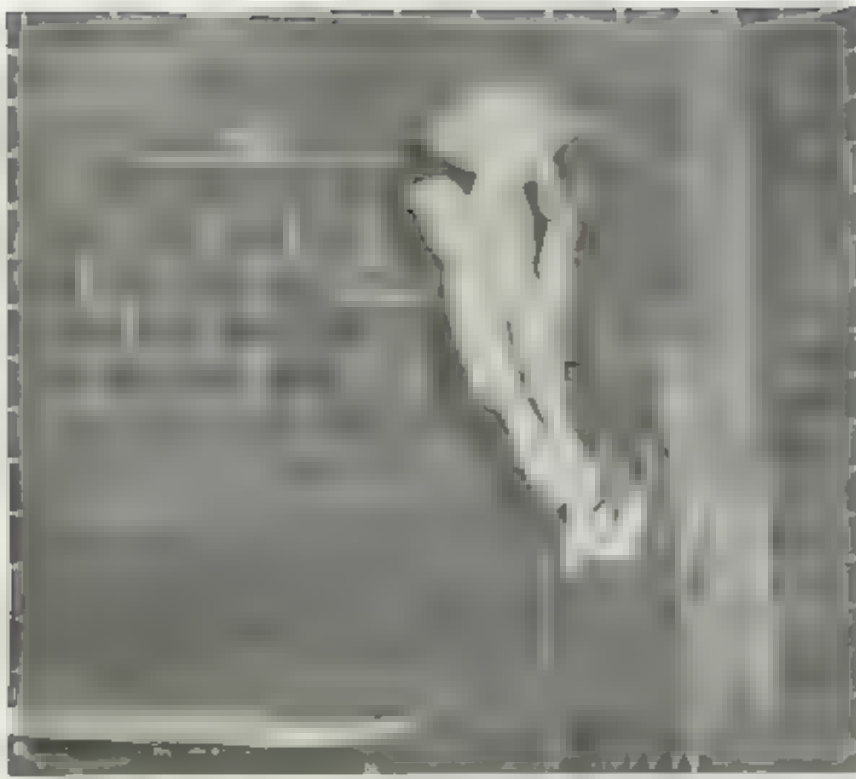

Campus sent two swimmers to the State Swimming Meet at Lawrence. Bob Warwick and Joe Schroeder competed with boys all over the state. Bob took a second place finish. Also, Bob set three new school records. Joe and Rick Spencer were other Campus record breakers. Mainly because of inexperience, the 1966-67 swim season was unsuccessful. Coached by Mr. Glen Crum, the Colt swimmers are looking for a stronger season next year.

Varsity Track Team Set Several School Records

New coaches, new team, and new records were a few of the various changes the 1966-67 varsity track team experienced throughout the season.

The upperclassmen led the squad to one of the most victorious seasons for Campus. The Colts took second at the Campus Invitational and in the league. Placing first in the Independence meet highlighted the season.

Many new school records were set by some of these outstanding members:

180 yd. low hurdles	Bruce Burnett-21.2
High jump	Jerry Berg-6' 1/4"
Broad jump	Richard Holt-20' 8"
Javelin	Willie McNeil-185' 1"
Shotput	Richard Buchanan-48'

In his initial coaching season, Cal Faulkner led the 1966-67 varsity baseball team to a 5-6 record.

Along with assistant coach Ray Russell, Coach Faulkner welcomed four returning diamondmen from last year and some promising underclassmen as the season began.

The season highlight was the Colts' 4-3 victory over Wichita North early on the schedule.

With five returning lettermen, the coaches hope for a better record next year.

Netmen Face Tough Meets; Golf Captures Sixth Place

Under the guidance of new coach Don Learned, the tennis squad labored through a tough schedule, winning only one meet against Wellington and losing some close ones.

The Colts were well represented in several tournaments throughout the year. In the Augusta Tournament Larry Bryan and Vaughn Langley captured second place in doubles.

In Coach Reed's first year at the head of the golf team, the squad finished sixth in AVL competition. Leslie Clifton and John Hays tied for second at the 15-team Wellington Tournament and Max Daniel placed medalist for the team at the Regional Tourney.

The last spurt of determination is expressed by Dale Snyder as he crosses the finish line. Seniors Fred Mann and Cliff Ryherd demonstrate concentrated effort as they round the two-mile course.

Colts Gain Experience; Girls Ignite School Spirit

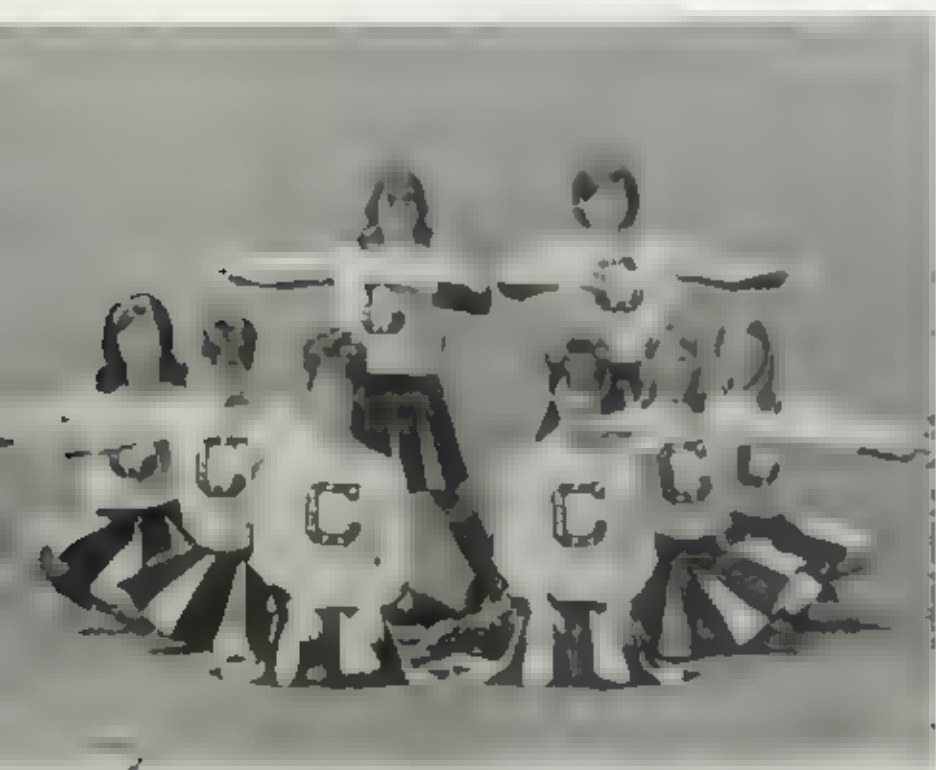

A fourth place finish in league competition highlighted Campus' cross country season. Top runner was three-year letterman Fred Mann. He was the only Colt to compete at State. Underclassmen competed in several meets and gained valuable experience for coming years.

Eight energetic, enthusiastic cheerleaders lead Campus Colts to boundless school spirit. Innovations by these girls included the creation of the mascot, unusual skits, and new spirited cheers. At home or away the cheerleaders defended the fighting Colts.

Promoting school spirit was the 1966-67 varsity cheerleaders' ultimate goal.

The cross country team finds exercise is the most important factor for keeping in shape.

Three year varsity cheerleader Karen Eisenhower's experience helped guide the Colts to higher school spirit.

Headcheerleader Shirley Hughes contributed time and effort to make this year's squad the best.

A new day dawns for the Freshman Class Officers: President Bruce Griffin, Secretary Patty Stovall, and Treasurer Evans Futhon

Freshmen Were Aware Of Various Changes

The Freshman Class were fully aware of the various challenges with which they were confronted. The first year of high school is always an important step in everyone's life. There was a lot of eagerness, as well as uncertainty, faced by each and every student. Life in a high school is different than in junior high, but this year was even more difficult for the incoming freshmen. For this was the "changing times."

As new members of Campus High, the freshmen added their newness and awareness to the clubs, classes, and sports. This was the first year the freshmen were confronted with the election of their own cheerleaders. The Freshmen, like the others, were looking forward to achieving that certain goal.

Another day of confusion ends for the new Freshman

New Changes Develop In Sophomores' School Life

After adjusting to the school system as Freshmen last year, they also had to adjust to the new school system of this year as Sophomores.

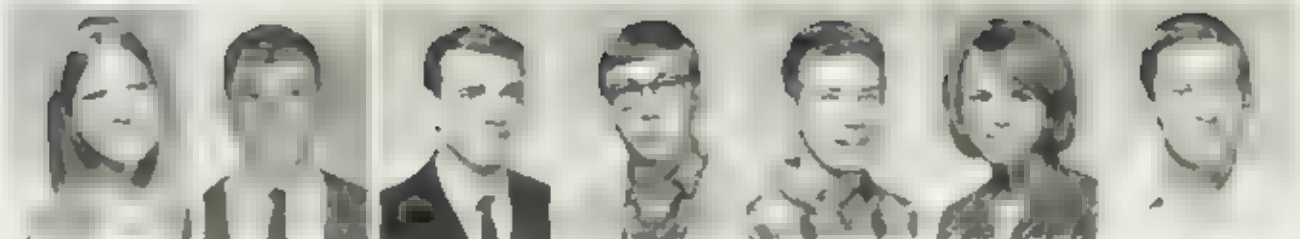

The weary footsteps of these Sophomores show the pains of being neither upperclassmen nor newcomers at CHS.

These COLTS have participated in many of the schools activities, and have took upon themselves some of the school years responsibilities.

After completing two years of high school, the 1967 Sophomores are ready to move forward and try the title of upperclassmen, and to experience more, new, and rewarding achievements.

Campus Juniors Accept Responsibilities, Privileges

As the Juniors returned to Campus, they became aware of the various changes. Not only were they one step higher on the high school ladder, but they were no longer underclassmen. They were Juniors accepting the responsibilities and privileges of their class. As a privilege of being a Junior, they anxiously awaited the turning of their rings, as a symbol of the patience of becoming a Senior.

The Juniors put in long hours of work on various activities and money-making projects for the annual Junior-Senior Prom. They took National Merit Tests and began to plan for their future with three memory-filled years of experience behind them.

"At spring a young man's fancy turns to"

Students in Mr. Williams class refer to their Economics textbook to clarify statements from their study guides.

Seniors' Accomplishments Viewed As Challenge

The Seniors' left a trail of accomplishments any graduating class would be proud of, and any underclass would view as a challenge.

The seniors' world was a busy one, whirling with activities. Sports events, club meetings, and dances were as much a part of their senior year as the studying and learning done within the walls of C.H.S. The senior banquet and the Junior-Senior Prom came and went in rapid succession, and the eventful year drew to a close with baccalaureate and graduation.

The class of 1967 walked out the doors of Campus High School for the last time remembering all that had been involved in the transition from wondering freshmen to confident seniors.

Senior Banquet Held At Innes Golden Room

The Senior Banquet was held on April 22, at Innes Golden Room.

The theme of the banquet was "Coming Up Roses", which was shown through decoration and center pieces.

Ron Soft, who acted as master of ceremonies, introduced Dr. Ray, president of Friends University as featured speaker. The subject of his speech was "Sampson".

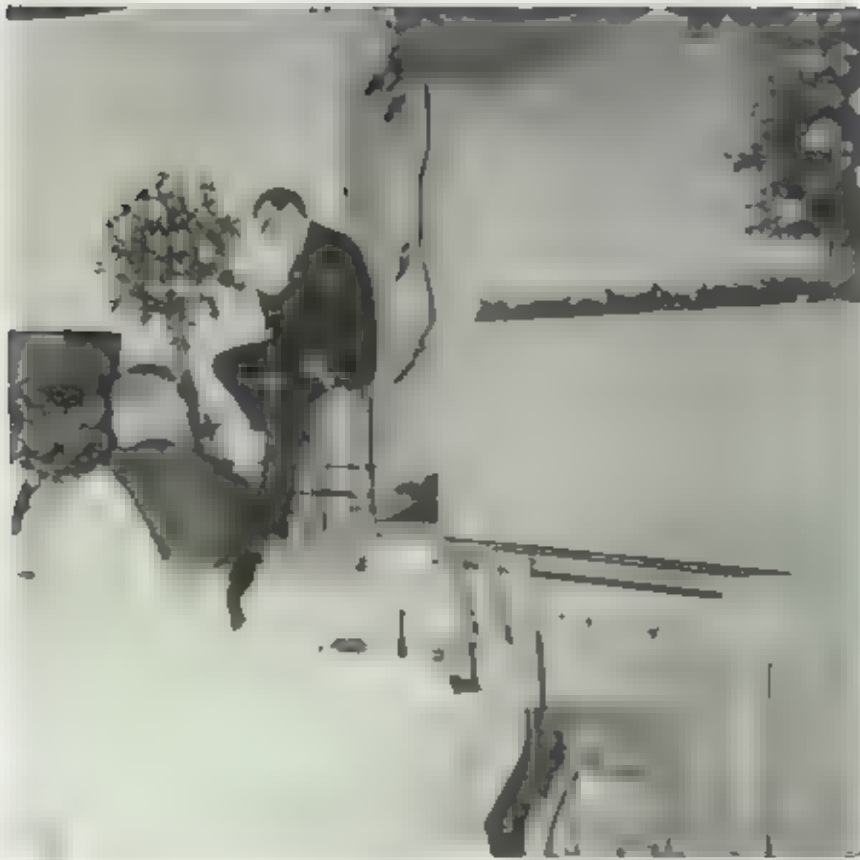

As featured entertainer, Eddie Kincheloe chose for his selections, "Summer Time," "Days of Wine and Roses," and "Scotch and Soda."

Four High School Years Lead Seniors To Commencement

On Sunday, May 21 seniors previewed their final event with baccalaureate services. Rev. Baugh of Haysville Christian Church addressed his speech as "What is Your Live."

The importance of individual thinking and the influence of the world was stressed as Dr. Littrell of KSU discussed "Modern Persuasion and Your T.Q." during commencement.

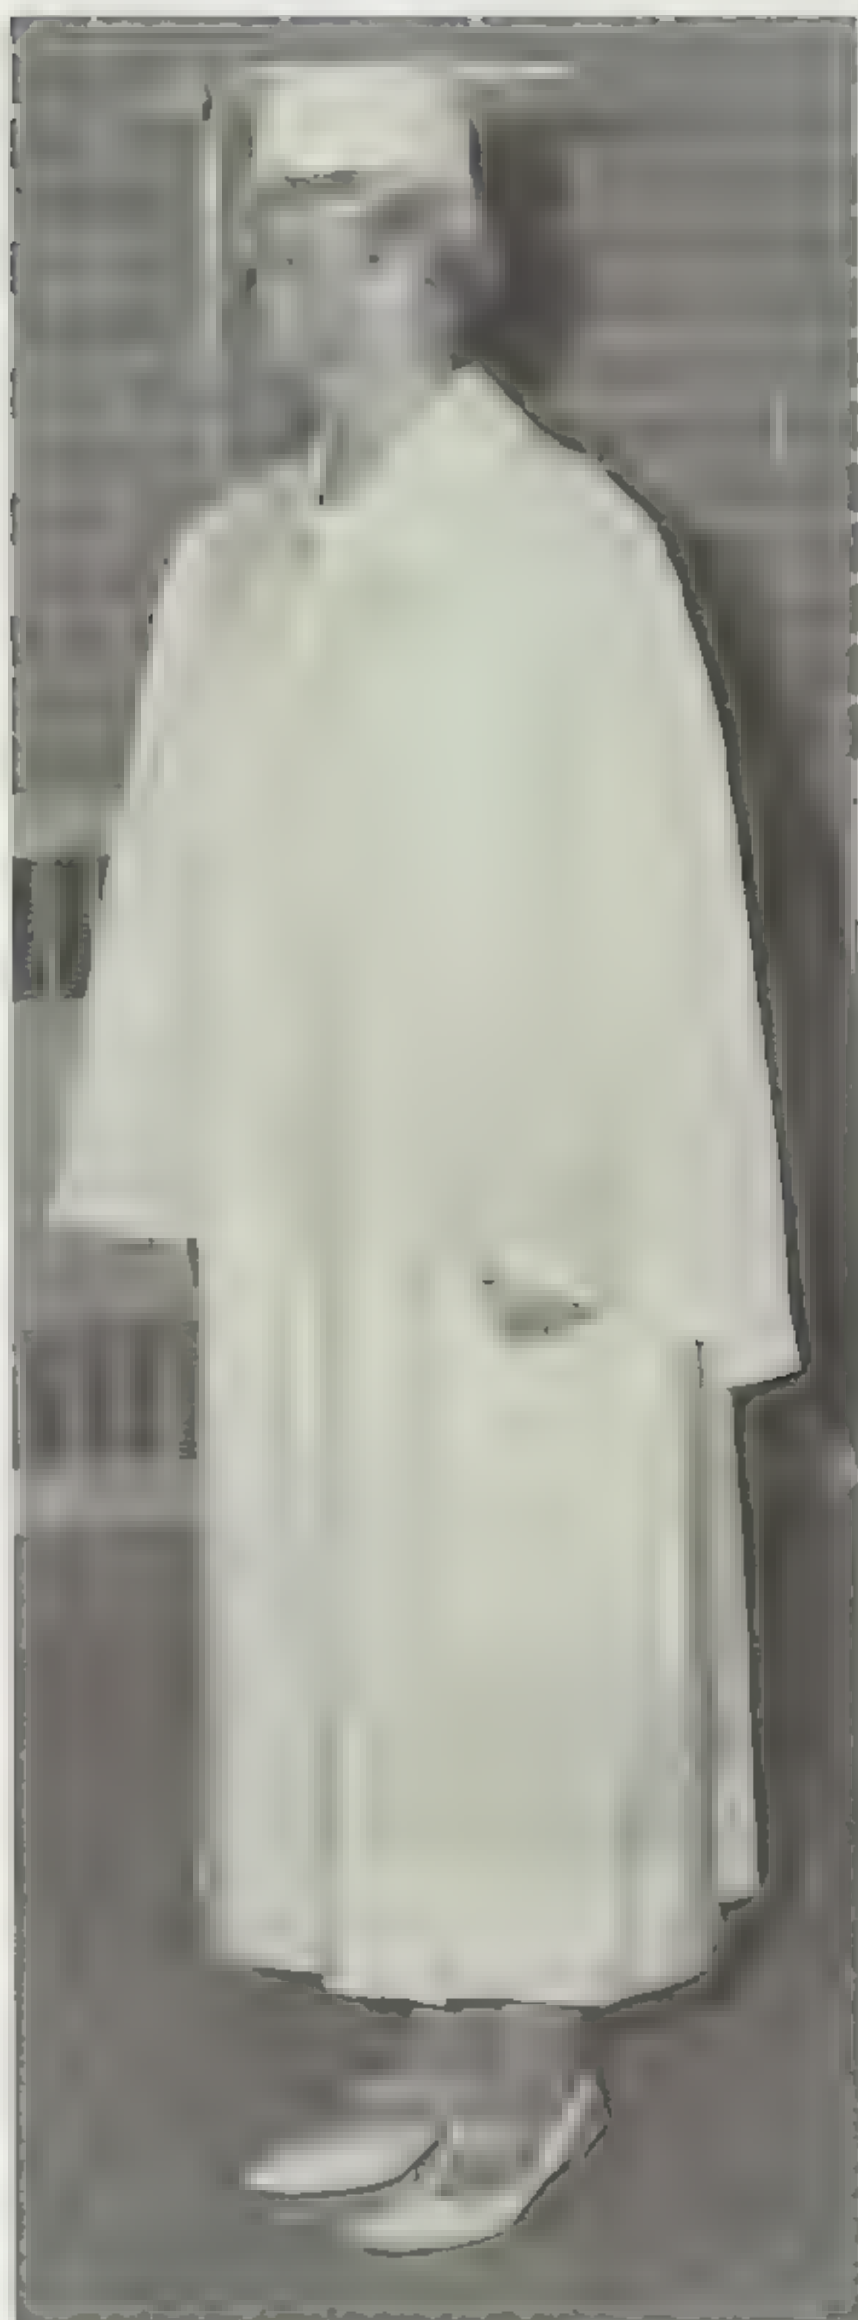

Mr. Hays, principal, presented the graduating class of Unified District 261 to Mr. Beal, president of the school board. The awaited and earned diplomas were handed out by Mr. Beal and Mr. Ransom, vice-president.

This year the recognition was given to the top ten graduates. Other recognition was given to the National Honor Society members and those receiving scholarships.

Four years of hard work, determination and fun suddenly came to a climax for the 186 graduates. Commencement exercises were held May 26 with the traditional wearing of the black and white caps and gowns. This event was made even more colorful by the junior girls acting as a Daisy Chain. Kenny Brant and John Stone served as junior escorts.

Bill And Jeannie Reign Over Homecoming

To the tune of "Ain't She Sweet". Bill Hancock and Jeannie Charles were crowned King and Queen of the seventh annual Homecoming ceremonies during halftime of the Campus-Ark City game on October 29. The returning royalty Sharon Roles and Jim Schneider crowned this year's couple.

When asked about her reactions at being named Queen, Jeannie said, "I was surprised, shocked, and very happy. Never dreamed it could have happened to me." King Bill said, "I thought it was a mistake when they called my name, thought it would be one of the tough football players."

The 1966-67 Homecoming royalty was honored with a dance in the cafeteria after the game.

Ron And Virginia Crowned Annual Ball King and Queen

Glitter from a roval tiara added sparkle to Queen Virginia McGee after being crowned by King Ron Soft.

The theme for this years Annual Ball, which is sponsored by the "Yearling Staff," was "Silver Bells." It was held in the cafeteria on Dec. 17, 1966. Music was provided by the Bushmen.

Three boys and three girls are chosen annually to compete for the honor of King and Queen. They are picked by a committee on the basis of academic and school participation. The final vote is decided by the student body.

The air was full of excitement as Ron gave Virginia the Royalty kiss. This couple will represent the school for a year.

King, Queen Of Courts Begins New Tradition

A new tradition began after Steve Dannels and Karen Eisenhower were crowned King and Queen of the first Queen of Courts on the evening of February 10th.

Steve and his attendants returned to the game while Karen and hers helped cheer the team on to victory.

Highlighting the new festivity was when the royal couple reigned over the dance held in their honor.

Larry Hoba, Shirley Hughes, Steve Dannels, Karen Eisenhour, Larry Watkins, and Kathy Stearns, express their joy as Steve Dannels is announced Basketball King.

"In The Misty Moonlight" Is Junior-Senior Prom's Theme

Sparkle and glamour of the fountain added to the theme of the 1967 Junior-Senior Prom "In The Misty Moonlight." The activities took place at the Civic Playhouse on May 6.

Brenna Schulze and Dennis Walston reigned over the evenings activities after Lana Underwood and Richard Buchanan were named junior attendants.

A different arrangement of music was provided this year. The popular "Downbeats" played the latest songs for dancing.

Pictures were taken in natural color in front of the gazebo. The well attended prom was enjoyed by everyone.

Campus Musical Features Double Cast, Underclassmen

"Wildcat," the first musical in two years featured such changes as double cast of main characters, underclassmen playing lead roles and a full audience both nights.

Wildcat Jackson and her beautiful but handicapped sister, Janie, arrived at Centavo City for one reason: they were hoping to strike-it-rich on oil.

After their arrival, Wildcat and Janie met an eccentric countess. They obtained oil land from a hermit, hired the famous oil foreman, Joe Dynamite, attended a gay Mexican fiesta, and after many days of planning and bribbing people, Wildcat and her oil crew struck a gusher.

New, Old Faces Appear In "Mouse That Roared"

"The Mouse That Roared" was presented by the Campus Drama Department under the direction of Mrs. Pelsue. The cast included many new and old faces to the Campus theater, which provided for an evening of laughter.

The comedy occurred in the small country of Grand Finwick located in Southern Europe. The country had reached a condition of near bankruptcy when it discovered that an American firm was counterfeiting their wine. Grand Finwick decided to declare war on the U.S., after being ignored by the United States they attacked and won the war.

Debaters Win Five Firsts, Place Fourth At State

Campus debaters placed first in four tournaments, tied for first place with Southeast at District, and wound-up their season with a fourth at State.

Completing his first year at Campus, Mr. Mahon guided the debaters to their most successful year in the school's history. According to the debate coach, the secret of the winning season was learning more and working harder, earlier in the season.

Although Campus lost four senior debaters, next season looks just as good. Campus sent two juniors to State, where they made a fine showing. It is expected they'll spark another winning season.

Debaters listen attentively as Mr. Mahon explains debating procedures.

700 E. Central

AM 7-4221

Wichita

Junior Nancy Kimple selects Steffen's cottage cheese and vita-milk from the dairy counter of a local store for a small dinner. At meal time or snack time, Nancy knows that she can depend on all Steffen's products to be of the best quality and the most nutritious she and her family can eat.

Many families have come to trust the top name in dairy foods to be Steffen's.

RAY'S CLEANERS

3360 So. Seneca

LY 1-3151

Wichita

Immediate assistance when you walk through the door of Ray's Cleaners is one of the characteristics that impresses their many customers. Ray's features spotless cleaning, speedy return of all clothing, and down-to-earth prices.

Senior Bobbie Walters has come to rely on such services for all of her cleaning needs. She knows that she can depend on Ray's to do a good job and have it ready for her when she needs it.

YEARBOOK AND NEWSPAPER JOURNALISM

Throughout the year, yearbook and newspaper journalism students strived to prepare original, interesting, publications. The newspaper students, known as the Colt Special staff, endeavored to keep all Campus students informed of the latest happenings on Campus while Yearling staffers prepared the current edition of the yearbook.

The Appliance Bar HAYSVILLE ELEVATOR

319 So. Main

JA 4-4771

Haysville

Elevators usually bring to mind, grains, seeds, and grasses. The Haysville Elevator has now introduced a new concept by featuring a wide selection of modern appliances as well as carrying the necessary farm products. Bobbie Boutwell and Colleen Chitwood discuss the features of a hair dryer, one of the many appliances.

Each hour of the past lends its tribute to this,
Till it blooms like a flower in the Garden of Bliss,
The thorn and the thistle may grow as they will,
Where friendship unfolds there is paradise still.

Too precious these moments! The luster they fling
Is the light of our year, as the gem of its ring.
So brimming with sunshine, we must not forget
The joy that we've had and the friends we have met.

Some will win world's homage, their names we'll hold dear,
But friendship, not fame, is the countersign here.

My Annual
by Oliver Wendell Holmes
